Services to Seniors

Resource Councils, Meal Programs

Provides ongoing support to seniors to help them stay independent in their homes longer, with an improved quality of life. Services are provided through two main avenues - Resource Councils and Congregate Meal Programs.

Congregate meal programs provide seniors with full course, nutritious meals in a social atmosphere, while Resource Councils provide numerous services to seniors, some of which are volunteer and some that are on a fee-for-service basis.

THERAPY SERVICES

Massage Therapy

Massage therapy improves functioning of the circulatory, lymphatic, muscular, skeletal, and nervous systems and may improve the rate at which the body recovers from injury and illness. Massage involves holding, causing movement of soft tissue, and/or applying pressure to the body. Massage comes in many forms, including:

- Swedish a gentle, relaxing massage;
- Pressure point therapy for certain conditions or injuries; and
- Sports massage that focuses on muscle groups relevant to a particular sport.

Women's Health

Women's health issues are different. In addition to obvious issues related to reproductive health, women also face an increased rate of chronic illnesses as they age, as well as higher rates of mental illness such as depression. Women experience diseases and illnesses, such as heart disease and stroke, differently from men.

The Women's Health Strategy recognizes the distinct health needs of women in the planning, implementation and delivery of health care services, and seeks to ensure awareness and responsiveness to gender differences in all aspects of health care delivery in North Eastman.
